1. Water catching the sky

Water has its own quiet intelligence, multiplying light, extending space and bringing in calm.

2. Rhythm of nature

Early mornings when the air is wet and the sound of trickling rain on the tin roof...that moment is pure joy.

3. An unfinished wall

There's honesty in incompleteness... in surfaces that still carry the touch of making. It's a reminder that nothing human is built is ever truly finished.

4. An amethyst gifted by a miner friend

Its violet stillness is a reminder that true impact isn't about scale or form, but about what it endures.

A FRAGMENT OF VOLCANIC ROCK
FROM ICELAND

The closest thing in hand to a frozen explosion and a powerful reminder that creation and destruction are not opposites but collaborators of life.
